

A transnational project exploring our shared and contested Colonial heritage and its influence on contemporary culture.

CONTESTED DESIRES: Constructive Dialogues

OPEN CALL for ARTISTS based in The Netherlands

Project Duration: September 2024 - November 2026
Artist Fee: €9050 (travel, accommodations, daily per diems for subsistence and production materials are paid for separately)
Artform: Participatory and socially-engaged visual arts practice (including but not limited to: drawing, printmaking, photography, film, digital, sound, installation, performance).

ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

CONTESTED DESIRES: Constructive Dialogues (CDCD) is a 3-year arts and heritage programme which offers an unique international opportunity for two artists based in The Netherlands to take part in a funded programme of residences, exhibitions and knowledge exchange workshops and seminars.

From the Greeks, to the Romans, the Ottomans to the Venetians, from the seafaring nations of Northern and Western Europe embarking on crusades and trade missions, Europeans have exploited, imposed and foraged cultures and communities to build their Empires. This legacy presents a complex cultural heritage, often contested through the narratives, perspectives and lived experiences we encounter. A legacy of individuals, communities and nation states constructing their identities through a mosaic of cultural choices and desires.

CDCD aims to challenge the destabilising and divisive impact of the current political landscapes of Europe and beyond, where the response to the complexities, diversity and expansion of our communities continues to be met with fear-mongering, discrimination and exclusion.

This transnational, multi-partner project will explore how artists and cultural organisations can work with communities to build a shared understanding of the colonial past and what it can mean to different citizens in our multicultural societies.

Working across the Netherlands, Italy, Ghana, Tunisia, Chile, Hungary, Slovenia, Portugal, Cyprus, Spain and the UK, CDCD will dig deep to explore, and reveal the links between our shared colonial history and our cultural identities today from diverse perspectives.

CDCD will engage contemporary artists to consider the problematic legacy of European colonialism held in museum collections and represented across heritage sites and public spaces. These spaces will provide rich starting points for artistic research and interaction. Together, we will build bridges for intersectional conversations and creative interactions to mindfully explore heritage and decoloniality and new forms of expression we can look towards.

CDCD is supported by the Creative Europe programme of the European Union and local funders.

WHO IS INVOLVED

CDCD connects 19 innovative organisations globally, representing museums, research centres, universities and independent cultural producers. CDCD will select 22 artists across 11 partner countries.

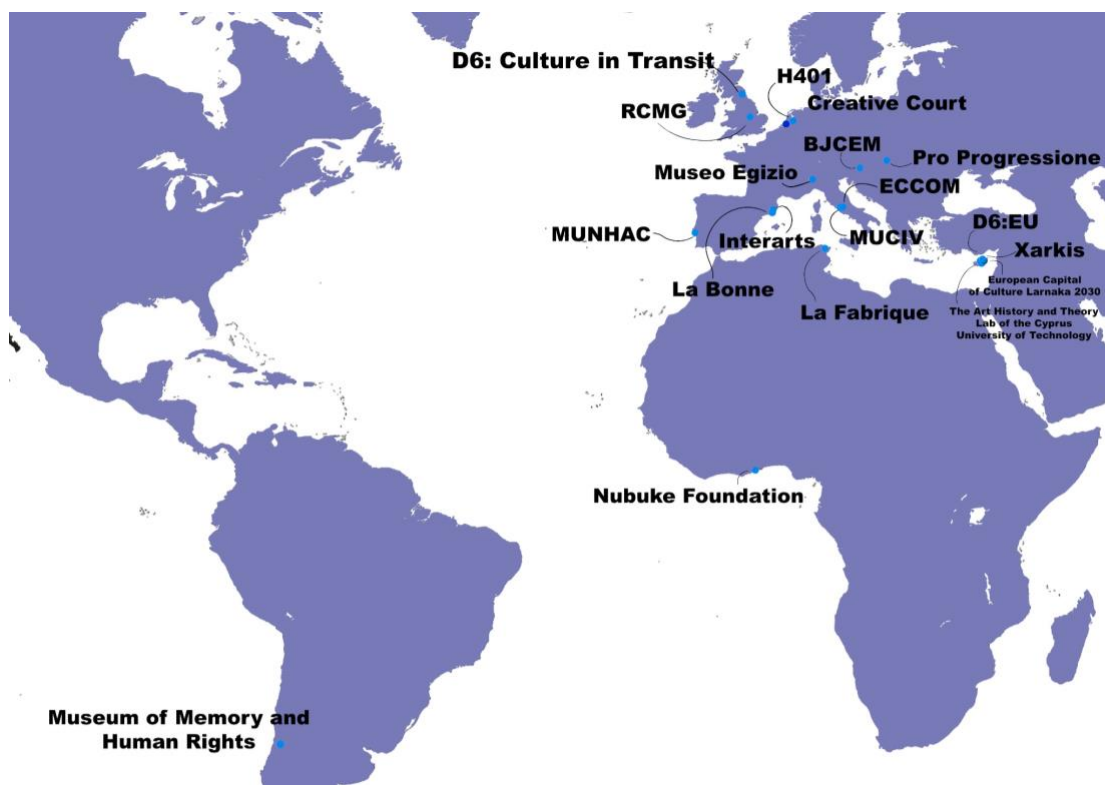

Partners:

ECCOM (Italy), BJCEM (Belgium), Creative Court (The Netherlands), D6:EU (Cyprus), D6: Culture in Transit (UK), European Capital of Culture Larnaca 2030 (Cyprus), H401 (The Netherlands), Interarts (Spain), La Bonne (Spain), La Fabrique (Tunisia), Museo Egizio (Italy), Museo delle Civiltà (Italy), MUHNAC - University of Lisbon (Portugal), Museum of Memory and Human Rights (Chile), Nubuke Foundation (Ghana), Pro Progressione (Hungary), RCMG - University of Leicester (UK), Technical University of Cyprus (Cyprus), Xarkis (Cyprus).

ABOUT THE PARTNERS IN THE NETHERLANDS

H401 is a private foundation located in the Herengracht building of late artist Gisèle d'Ailly. It is a place where research, art and dialogue come together to investigate the human condition with all its contradictions. The central question is how we as a society, organizations and individuals with layered pasts want to deal with the present and the future. We do this in collaboration with local and international partner institutions, with artists, thinkers, scholars and scientists.

Creative Court develops research-based art projects and conducts arts-based research that reflects on peace and global justice. They produce multidisciplinary artistic stories that look into uncertain futures, challenging current issues and unspoken realities of history - and the related underlying emotions that are often impossible to put into words. Throughout the artists' journey, Creative Court will be their artistic sparring partner.

THE JOURNEY OF A CONTESTED DESIRES: CONSTRUCTIVE DIALOGUES ARTIST

Each artist’s journey will begin from this starting point:

‘What are the impacts of colonial heritage on contemporary society that interest you?
How can your art practice create points of contact and connection for constructive dialogues?’

These questions will act as a point of provocation and reflection throughout CDCD and will expand in response to the artistic work created and knowledge exchange workshops and seminars.

Each selected artist will participate in the following activities across September 2024 until November 2026:

- x1 month-long international residency, concluding with a presentation of work in progress. This will be a joint residency alongside one other CDCD artist from one of the partner countries.
- x1 two-week group residency in a different country with 2-4 CDCD artists where the artwork will be adapted to the local context, concluding with a larger exhibition of artwork and a seminar.
- x1 two-week group residency with all 22 CDCD artists to adapt artwork to a site-specific setting in a rural Cypriot context, followed by a final presentation of artwork at Xarkis Festival, Cyprus.
- x5 international knowledge exchange workshops. Artists will attend workshops exploring the themes of participatory practices, environment, gender, social inclusion and decolonial methodologies in relation to CDCD.
- Support to develop a digital presentation of your work for an online exhibition.
- Evaluation and production meetings (as required).

Further opportunities may arise during the project delivery subject to further fundraising by the CDCD partners.

There are 2 possible journeys for the artist based in The Netherlands. You can apply to one specific journey, or both. This will not affect how your application is judged. The artist will engage across the CDCD programme in the following way:

ABOUT THE RESIDENCY HOSTS

D6:EU, sister NGO to D6: Culture in Transit, D6:EU was established to develop European cultural capacity around the European Green Agenda; Participation and Equity in engagement; and Heritage and Diversity. An independent NGO, D6:EU develops international opportunities for artists and cultural professionals across Cyprus, Europe and the Middle East. The values of Equity, Sustainability, Curiosity and Generosity underpin a programme which encompasses capacity building and equitable European collaborations which are deeply connected to social and environmental justice.

Pro Progressione fosters global cultural collaborations across five pillars—PP Social, PP Cult, PP Arts, PP Sound, and PP Green. Specialising in socially engaged arts, heritage interpretation, musical traditions and unique performances, our projects aim to achieve lasting positive impact. As enthusiastic supporters of interdisciplinary collaboration, our successful international projects funded by the European Commission are in line with our goal of building a global network to engage communities in the arts for a sustainable and inclusive future.

Xarkis (origin ancient Greek eks' arhis = from the beginning) works with socially engaged, site-specific, participatory art and design practices, with a strong interest in natural and human heritage and its influences on local societies. Xarkis Multi-residency and Xarkis Festivals are two of their nomadic activities, where participants from various artistic backgrounds co-create site-specific works, by engaging with local communities, to foster collaborative knowledge exchange and nurture conversations on socio-ecological change.

ABOUT THE RESIDENCY HOSTS

Pro Progressione fosters global cultural collaborations across five pillars—PP Social, PP Cult, PP Arts, PP Sound, and PP Green. Specialising in socially engaged arts, heritage interpretation, musical traditions and unique performances, our projects aim to achieve lasting positive impact. As enthusiastic supporters of interdisciplinary collaboration, our successful international projects funded by the European Commission are in line with our goal of building a global network to engage communities in the arts for a sustainable and inclusive future.

MUHNAC - the National Museum of Natural History and Science - of the University of Lisbon is the largest Portuguese science museum. The Museum integrates several historical buildings, two botanical gardens classified as national monuments and the largest collections of natural history and history of science, with more than three million specimens, artefacts, manuscripts, drawings and photographs, dated from the 16th to the 21st centuries. Part of these collections were constituted in the context of Portuguese colonial activities throughout the 20th century, thus containing historically and culturally sensitive objects. These objects were assembled in scientific missions, promoted by the Junta de Investigações do Ultramar.

Xarkis (origin ancient Greek eks' arhis = from the beginning) works with socially engaged, site-specific, participatory art and design practices, with a strong interest in natural and human heritage and its influences on local societies. ARTIST FEE

The total fee for the work described in this brief is €9050, for which the artist is expected to participate fully in the programme. In addition to the artist fee, CDCD will cover travel, accommodation and a daily per diem / catering for subsistence for international travel, and production costs for the residency. Payment will be made according to an agreed schedule and on receipt of invoices.

The selected artists in The Netherlands will each be provided a contract and will be managed by H401 and Creative Court. All copyright for the work produced will remain with the artist.

APPLICATION PROCESS

This Open Call is to select 2 artists based in The Netherlands. Selection will be based on:

- Quality of artistic practice

- Quality of response to the questions in the application form
- Experience of participatory and socially-engaged practice
- Experience of collaboration with other artists and across sectors
- Demonstrable interest in the role of contemporary arts in heritage contexts, with particular reference to the themes of the programme

In addition, all applicants must be:

- Proficient in English language
- Aged 18 or older
- Based in The Netherlands
- Submit all application documents requested on the application form
- Commitment to participate in all activities

Key considerations:

- This is a transnational project, and the selected artists will be working across multiple sites and contexts. Selected artists will be encouraged to create ephemeral and mobile works that are environmentally conscious and that can be adapted to be site-specific to each place.
- CDCD focuses on participatory methodologies. Artists will be expected to engage with local communities in ethical ways that feel appropriate to the research and are not extractive.
- English is the primary language across CDCD. Artists will be supported to communicate effectively with speakers of other languages as part of the development, production and presentation of their work.
- Artists can either produce solo projects or may wish to collaborate with other CDCD artists they are in residence with.

HOW TO APPLY

The application process involves:

Stage 1: A short application form

Stage 2: An interview with up to 3 shortlisted artists per 'Journey' (opportunity). This will take place with H401, Creative Court and the two residency hosts for the journey you apply for. All selection decisions are final.

Shortlisted applicants will be notified by: 21 May 2024
Shortlisted applicants will be interviewed between: 27-30 May 2024

EQUITY, DIVERSITY AND EQUALITY

We seek to ensure that no present or potential member of staff, artist or project participant is treated less favourably than another on grounds of race, colour, nationality, ethnic origin, gender, gender identity, marital or civil partnership status, disability, sexual orientation, religious or political beliefs, age, social class or offending background.

While our ambition is to shape an open, accessible project, we also acknowledge that the nature of this project involves extended periods of travel, which may present barriers to participation.

ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY

The CDCD project prioritises environmental sustainability, adopting a comprehensive strategy that recognizes its interconnectedness with broader sustainability and ethical considerations. Throughout the project, artists will engage with three core sustainability practices:

- The establishment of self-regulatory ethical guidelines to shape environmental frameworks and codes of conduct, which will be closely monitored and assessed throughout the project's execution.
- The enhancement of knowledge and capabilities concerning key EU and international initiatives, including the Sustainable Development Goals and the European Green Deal, to ensure alignment with global sustainability standards.
- The development of a heightened awareness of the more-than-human world, highlighting eco-philosophy as a crucial source of artistic inspiration and creativity

If you require further access needs to participate in the CDCD programme you will be able to identify this in the application form. For any support to make your application, please contact m.manunta@h401.org
